Beginner Chat Representative – Flexible Remote Opportunity

Description

Intro to the Role

We are hiring dependable and motivated individuals for remote chat-based customer assistance roles. If you're seeking a beginner-friendly job that doesn't require a degree or traditional work background, this opportunity might be the perfect fit. This position is 100% remote, offers flexible scheduling, and focuses entirely on text-based support. That means no phone calls, no video meetings, and no sales quotas—just clear written communication and a desire to help customers solve simple issues online.

Successful applicants will support a fast-scaling digital brand in maintaining outstanding customer experiences through real-time chat interactions. With a robust training program, built-in tools, and daily coaching, you'll be empowered to thrive from day one—even if you've never worked online before.

Logging Interactions

Document each chat session using drop-down menus and notes. Accurately tag resolutions or escalate the issue to another department when necessary.

Collaborating Remotely

Work alongside your team lead and other agents through our internal chat support channel. Ask questions, share suggestions, and learn in real time without video calls
