How to Verify Legitimacy Yourself

Before Applying to ANY Work From Home Position:

Research the Company Name: Google the company name plus "scam" or "review" or "complaints." Check Better Business Bureau listings. Search Reddit and job review sites. Legitimate companies might have occasional complaints, but patterns of fraud accusations are red flags.

Verify Business Registration: Search your state's Secretary of State business database. Legitimate companies are registered entities with public records showing incorporation dates, registered agents, and business addresses.

Check for Physical Address: Legitimate companies have verifiable physical locations. Google the address to ensure it's not a residential home or non-existent location. Use Google Street View to see if the address exists.

Look for Professional Website: Legitimate companies maintain professional websites with detailed information about services, contact information, leadership team, and operational details. Not just recruitment-focused landing pages.

Verify Claims: If a company claims to work with specific brands or businesses, Google those relationships. Legitimate partnerships are often mentioned on both companies' websites or in press releases.

Test Communication Quality: Legitimate companies communicate professionally through business email addresses, respond to questions clearly, and never pressure you to act immediately without time to consider.

- The company pays employer portions of Social Security and Medicare taxes
- You receive W-2 forms annually for tax filing
- You're covered under workers' compensation insurance
- You're eligible for unemployment benefits if employment ends

Every two weeks, your pay is directly deposited to your bank account:

- Pay periods run Sunday-Saturday for two-week periods
- Paychecks issued the Friday following pay period end
- Pay stubs available through online portal showing all details
- Processed through verified payroll provider (ADP Workforce Now)
