You'll provide online support for customers via chat and email, assisting with orders, technical questions, and general inquiries. This is a legitimate, full-time or part-time opportunity with paid training and clear advancement potential—perfect for San Antonio residents entering the remote workforce for the first time.

Why Remote Work Is Booming in San Antonio

San Antonio's growing technology, healthcare, and e-commerce sectors have driven strong demand for trained remote support staff. Companies increasingly hire from the local workforce to maintain time zone alignment and consistent service quality. These roles allow you to contribute to national and international brands while enjoying the benefits of working from home.

Responsibilities

- Handle chat and email inquiries from customers across various industries.
 - Answer questions about billing, orders, and general account issues.
 - Document interactions using internal systems like Zendesk or Freshdesk.
 - Follow company guidelines for tone, accuracy, and privacy compliance.
 - Escalate unresolved or complex cases to the correct department.
 - Participate in ongoing skill training and process updates.
- Most representatives manage 25–40 interactions per shift and maintain a response time under two minutes.

Requirements

- Must reside in or near San Antonio, Texas.
- No degree or previous work experience required—training provided.
- Strong writing and communication skills.
- Reliable high-speed internet (minimum 10 Mbps).
- Quiet home workspace with a computer and headset.
- Self-discipline and time management to meet shift goals.

Training & Onboarding

You'll receive structured onboarding designed for new remote employees:

- Week 1: Orientation, system setup, and workflow overview.
- Week 2: Live chat simulations with supervisor feedback.
- Week 3: Transition to active support with performance monitoring.
